

DOUG OATHOUT

Vice President, Worldwide Marketing, Converged Infrastructure
Enterprise Servers, Storage and Networking, HP Enterprise Business

HEWLETT-PACKARD COMPANY

Doug Oathout is vice president of Marketing for Converged Infrastructure in the Enterprise Servers, Storage and Networking Worldwide Organization at HP.

In his role, Oathout is responsible for articulating the HP Converged Infrastructure strategy and portfolio. Previously, Oathout was vice president of Green IT and business development for HP Enterprise Business, where he led strategy, solution development and marketing for HP's Green IT solutions. Green IT is one of the cornerstones of converged infrastructure.

With more than 15 years of experience in the high-tech industry, Oathout brings extensive experience in solution development, marketing and strategic alliances to his current role. He also has broad experience running business units and marketing.

Prior to joining HP, Oathout worked for IBM, where he led different marketing and solutions teams in IBM's server, printing and services businesses. As product marketing manager at Intel Corporation, Oathout was responsible for the original equipment manufacturer business product line. Oathout started his career at NCR Corporation as a research and development engineer.

Oathout earned a Master of Business Administration from the University of North Carolina's Kenan Flagler Business School and a Bachelor of Science in electrical engineering from Clarkson University.
