

Stephen Nigro

Senior Vice President, Inkjet and Web Solutions
Business, Imaging and Printing Group
Hewlett-Packard Company

Stephen Nigro is senior vice president of the Inkjet and Web Solutions (IWS) business within the Imaging and Printing Group (IPG) at HP. He and his team are responsible for transforming the business to meet the demanding printing, web services and retail publishing needs of consumers and small- to midsize (SMB) business customers.

IWS consists of consumer and business inkjet printing solutions, retail publishing solutions, Snapfish (photo web service), SMB-focused printing services, ink supplies, media and technology platform development.

Prior to his current role, Nigro served as senior vice president and general manager of the Graphics and Imaging Business, with responsibility for leading IPG's graphics businesses, generating new imaging system businesses and developing new printing and non-printing technologies.

Nigro joined HP in 1981 in San Diego and moved to HP's Corvallis, Ore., site in 1990. He worked in Singapore from 1991 to 1994, then returned to Corvallis and now is based in Vancouver, Wash.

Nigro holds a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from the University of California at Santa Barbara and a master's degree in electrical engineering from Stanford University. He is a member of the advisory board for Oregon State University Engineering School's Top 25 program and also serves on the Oregon Business Council's board.
